Thoughts from the Superintendent: The NSCSD is Built on Community Support

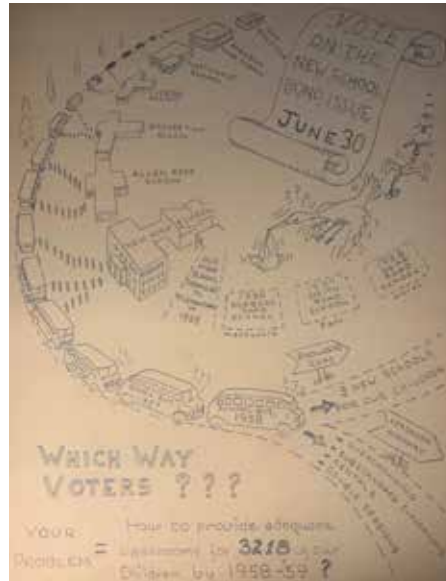

I'm not sure how February can possibly be here already when it feels like I just sat down to write my first message to you.

This school year is going by so quickly! I can't help feeling like we will soon be watching our Class of 2020 walk across the stage and collect their hard-earned diplomas.

Over the holiday break, our staff had some time to clean out and reorganize around the district office building. While doing so, we came across some old District promotional items, including an artist's rendering of the District (pictured) from the 1950's. It was fascinating to look through the historical items and get a glimpse of the District back then. Seeing where we have been made me realize just how far we have come.

From one-room schoolhouses, to merged districts and brand new buildings, the North Syracuse Central School District has been built on our community's support.

To that end, I want to take a moment to thank all who voted on this past December's Capital Project Referendum and overwhelmingly passed the project. We appreciate the tremendous support and are eager to get started with the much needed renovations at KWS Bear Road Elementary School.

We are currently working with our architects and the New York State Education Department to finalize renovation plans. A construction management company is helping us develop phasing strategies, a construction timeline and bid specifications.

Because of the complexities of the project, we are taking a multi-faceted approach to communication around it. In addition to holding public meetings, sending letters home, producing FAQ sheets and presenting updates at Board of Education meetings, we have created a website (www.nscsd.org/BREreno) specifically to update the community as we progress.

As always, our students are our highest priority as we construct the best learning environment for them and the generations to come.

Thank you again for supporting the North Syracuse Central School District as we continue to build the best learning environment for our most important asset – our students!

Daniel D. Bowles, Superintendent of Schools
