SUPAC is funded through a contract with the New York State Education Department (NYSED) Office of Special Education and seeks to empower parents to become meaningfully involved in their children's education through school, family, and community partnerships. SUPAC is a project of the Center on Human Policy and is located on the Syracuse University campus.

RESCHEDULED!

All parents, family members and guardians can and should have meaningful participation in their children's education, especially when the child receives special education supports and services. Effectively communicating and collaborating with the school team is essential to improved outcomes for students with disabilities. North Syracuse Central School District is pleased to host this Family Engagement Series
Parents at the Round Table Session chose the topic!

EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION BETWEEN SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES: THE KEY TO SUCCESS (NYSED VETTED)

March 21, 2019

Rescheduled from 2/26/19

9:15 AM to 11:15 AM

District Office Gym

Presented by Kristine O'Brien
Parent Outreach Specialist at SUPAC

This NYSED vetted training was developed to promote quality special education services for all students with disabilities. The modules contained within this training are intended to help Families and School Personnel to build their communication skills in their role as a CSE team member that is consistent with State laws and regulations. The goals of this training are:

- Participants will understand both their role and the student's role in the Special Education process
- Participants will understand the barriers that interfere with effective communication and strategies to overcome the barriers
- Participants will gain a basic understanding of the essential elements of effective communication
- Participants will learn about strategies and tools that will establish and maintain effective collaboration between families and schools
